

ULTRACHEM'S NEW WEBSITE IS UP AND RUNNING!

We are proud to announce we have completely redesigned our website from top to bottom. Over the past year, we have gathered input from our customers and used that information to offer a more user friendly, informative site that our customers will appreciate. A completely searchable cross reference has been added to allow customers to find the right Ultrachem equivalent to OEM and competitor's products. We've also added sections for featured products, downloading literature and requesting MSDS. Technical Data for all of our products can be found on the new site, in any language.

There's a wealth of information available by simply clicking on the "resources" tab. Here you will find information on oil analysis, product mixing and compatibility, service life and temperature.

Selecting "The Company" tab, you can view additional information about Ultrachem's history and a "Team" page listing the contact information for our sales and customer service staff.

We're very excited about the new site and would love to hear your comments. Please tell us how you feel about our improvements.

Oil/Water Separator Replacement Bags

Ultrachem recently increased our selection of aftermarket replacement bags for oil/water separators to include Sullair's OS Series and Summit's ConDePhase Plus Series. We have very favorable pricing on replacement carbon bags, Zeolite elements, pre-filters, expansion chamber elements and separation filters for a wide range of oil/water separators. These are available directly to our distributors and usually ship within 48 hours.

Psst... Website is optimized on mobile devices too.
